VOL 27. BLOOMSBURG, PA., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1892. NO. 46

THANKSGIVING DAY.

PRESIDENT HARRISON ISSUES A PROCLAMATION.

The following proclamation has been issued.

"The gift of God to our people during the past year have been so abundant and so special that the spirit of devout thanksgiving awaits not a call but only the appointment of a day when it may have a common expression. He has stayed the pestilence at our door; He has given us more love for the free civil institutions, in the creation of which His directing providence was so conspicuous. He has wakened a deeper reverence for law; He has widened our philanthropy by a call to succor the distress in other lands; He has blessed our schools and is bringing forward a patriotic and God-fearing generation to execute His great and benevolent designs for our country; He has given us a great increase in material wealth and wide diffusion of contentment and comfort in the homes of our people; He has given His grace to the sorrowing.

"Wherefore, I, Benjamin Harrison, President of the United States, do call upon all our people to observe as we have been wont, Thursday, the twenty-fourth day of this month of November, as a day of thanksgiving to God for His mercies and of supplication for His continued care and grace.

"In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

"Done at the city of Washington, this fourth day of November. one thousand eight hundred and nine-two and of the independence of the United States, the one hundred and seventeenth.

"BENJAMIN HARRISON

"By JOHN W. FOSTER, Secretary of State."

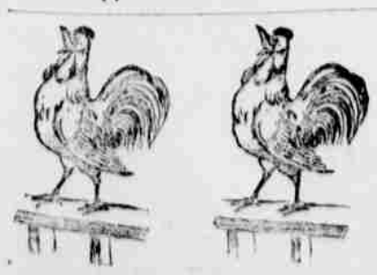
The Plays and Players.

Newton Beers and his excellent company have been holding forth at the opera house this week, and have given a series of first class entertainments. The plays have all been of a high order, and their presentation superb. Mr. Beers is an actor of great ability, and his impersonations of character are true to life. His support is of much more than ordinary ability. They will finish their engagement here Saturday night and should be greeted by a large audience They are worthy and deserving, and our people who like to witness a first-class show should avail themselves of the opportunity offerch them to-night and Saturday night. A matinee will be given Saturday afternoon.—Hutchinson, (Kan.) Times Repub., Oct. 3. Opera House, Saturday Nov. 12.

Will of John Colling.

The will of John Colling, late of Salem Township, Luzerne County was admitted to probate recently.

To his daughter Florence he leaves the house in Beach Haven, which she will possess during her natural life. After her death if she is without issue the house is to be divided between her two brothers, Thomas and Ira. A farm in Briar Creek township Columbia County, is bequeathed to the two sons, Ira and Thomas. The wife is to enjoy the use of the entire estate. Ira Colling and deceased's wife are appointed executors.



The Iams Case.

The Iams case could have had no other termination than the acquittal of Colonel Hawkins and Lieutenant Colonel Streator. The whole case was covered in the charge to the jury when Judge Porter said: "It was the duty of the officers to maintain proper discipline and if any feeling of insubordination arose it was their right and duty to punish such offenders." As to this particular punishment, the court said: "If the officers believed it was necessary so to punish Iams in order to maintain discipline and good order, they were justified in so doing, and they cannot be held accountable in any civil court."

No doubt the court would have been justified in throwing out the prosecution, as was suggested by the counsel for the officers, but it was better to leave the matter to the jury, so that their acquittal should have all the weight of a civil judgment rendered freely by their fellow citizens. The effect of this verdict is to affirm the fact that the military service of the Commonwealth is no holiday affair, but a serious devotion to a serious duty; that members, of the National Guard, when in active service, are subject to military discipline and that disloyal insubordination will be punished with the rigor of military law.

It would have been easy for the Court to affirm this principle by dismissing the complaint of Iams against his commanding officers, but such a judgment would not have carried the same weight as is given to it by the unbiased verdict of a civil jury. In a free Commonwealth the military power is always subordinate to the civil authority and subject to its review, but within its own field, when actually engaged in the defense of public order, it will never be interfered with on the complaint of dissatisfied individuals with real or fancied grievances to redress.—Times.

Clifton Knorr was badly burned about the head last Friday evening by the explosion of a torch which he was preparing to carry in the Republican parade He had emptied the oil from his torch, and was soldering the flash light attachment fast, when some of the red fire mixture ignited from the hot iron, and caused an explosion. It was supposed that he had lost the sight of both eyes, but this fortunately is not the case. He is rapidly improving, and will soon be able to be out.

COUNTY CHAIRMAN MERCER.

The result of the campaign in this county has fully demonstrated the fact that the friends of James H. Mercer made no mistake when they selected him as Chairman of the Democratic Standing Committee. He has been active, earnest, energetic, untiring. He has effected thorough organization, and with the assistance of the other members of the committee, he has conducted the canvass intelligently and thoroughly. Constantly for several weeks past he has given his time almost exclusioely to the work before him, and how well he has discharged his duties is shown by the democratic majority of 2586, in this county, a figure which has been exceeded but few times. He and the efficient secretary of the committee, C. B. Robbins, are entitled to the thanks of every democrat, for their unselfish and valuable services to the party.

KILLED ON THE RAILROAD.

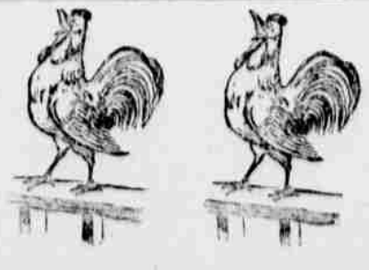
Josiph Hinton of Rupert was killed on the B. & S. railrord Monday afternoon. He was a fireman of the rock train of which Mr. Fortune is the conductor. When near Orangeville Mr. Hinton jumped from a car in front of engine, to run a head and turn the switch; after jumping he made several steps when his foot caught and he fell over the track. The car passed over him before the train could be stopped. When picked up life was extinct. Conductor Fortune immediately summond a physician, but it was of no avail. The body was brought down on the passenger train Monday evening and conveyed over the Philadelphia & Reading road to Rupert. A wife alone survives him, to morn his sudden death.

Bishop Rulison's Residence.

The designs for a handsome residence of Bishop Rulison, of the Episcopal church, have been completed by Architect Thomas Podmore, of Wilkesbarre; the house which is to be built at South Bethlehem will be of stone and three stories high.

The annual Harvest Home Services will be held in the Lutheran church Sunday morning. The church will be trimmed in the product of nature's fruits and flowers, and the exercises will all be by the children.

An elegant Thanksgiving dinner will be served in the old Prisbyterian church by the ladies of the Lutheran church.



Reading Gives Up Jersey Central.

ANSWER FILED AL HARRISBURG TO THE ATTORNEY GENERAL'S BILL OF COMPLAINT.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 5.—A large amount of evidence, documentary and otherwise, was submitted to-day in the hearirg before examiners Bergner and McAlarney in the Commonwealth's suit against the Reading combine, showing the location and physical relations of the Lehigh Valley, Jersey Central and Philadelphia and Reading Railroads to each other and the points at which they are alleged to compete for business, together with statements as to coal rates from the various anthracite regions before and after the lease of the Lehigh Valley and Jersey Central roads.

Attorney-General Hensel and George Nauman appeared for the Commonwealth and M. E. Olmstead for the defendants.

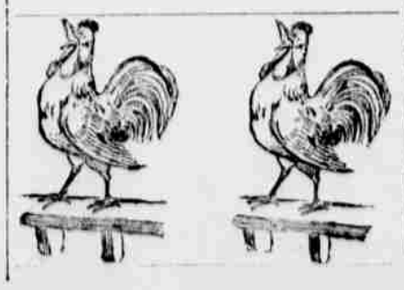
Mr. Olmstead also filed to-day supplementary answers to the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Company, Central Railroad Company of New Jersey, Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company and Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Company to the Attorney-General's bill of complaint. These answers show that the lease of the Jersey Central road has been surrendered.

Thanksgiving Proclamation.

From the Brooklyn Eagle.

The President has issued the customary Thanksgiving proclamation. The time fixed is long enough after the election for everybody to determine, from his own point of view, his precise cause of gratitude. What may be called non-partisan grounds of gratitude are sufficiently set forth by the President. The pestilence has been stayed and there is much of "contentment and comfort" as the result of the abundant "gifts of God" through the fruitful yield of the earth. The earth is apt to be right. Trouble comes usually through the people who inhabit the earth. As the prescriptive last Thursday of the month falls this year upon November 24, that day is appointed for Thanksgiving.

The weather was lovely on Tuesday, and some said it was good republican weather, and would bring out a big vote for them. Now, suppose it had rained, which they say is good democratic weather. But why suppose anything about it! Haven't we got the earth, as it is?



The Election in Town.

The first trial of the Baker bollot law has proven quite satisfactory in Bloomsburg. Most everybody is pleased with the system and would like to see it continued, with some few modifications. For instance, as the booths stand now anyone can see how each voter marks his ballot. They should be so located as to prevent this.

Although there was much interest manifested, there was little or no excitement during the day. The very large vote polled here shows the result of the thorough canvass made by both sides. The vote for President was as follows:

	1st	2d	3rd	4th	Total
Cleveland	117	102	191	191	601
Harrison	115	91	157	89	452
Bidwell	16	13	8	4	41
Weaver	3	1	1	1	6

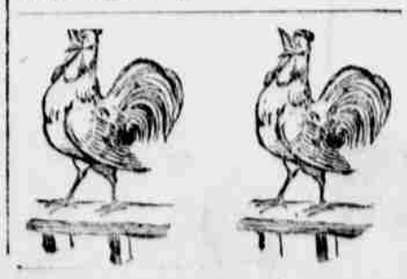
Cleveland's piurality was 149, every precinct going Democratic. The vote is larger than in 1888, and the majority is larger by 50. But few votes were not polled and most of those were owing to sickness. One prominent resident in the fourth lost his vote by failure to pay tax in two years. Another in the second lost his by showing his ballot contrary to law

Democratic headquarters were established at the Opera House, and the Republicans spent a quiet evening at the old Presbyterian Church. All the news from the start favored the Democrats, and there was cheering and hornblowing until after two o'clock when the band came out and the boys paraded. At 1 15 the lights were put out at Republican headquarters, and they silently and sadly sought their couches. It was all one way and there was no consolation in the reports for them. Large sums of money changed hands on the result.

The Democrats were kept well informed on Tuesday evening by dispatches from William Chrisman Esq. who was in New York, and by Senator Herring who was in Philadelphia, in addition to the general press dispatches. The telephon office was also connected with New York by the long distance wires, and received all that went over them.

The horns purchased by an enthusiastic republican down town, to toot in the parade on Wednesday morning, didn't toot for just the kind of news that he expected, but they tooted all the same.

It was a campaign of education, and the people seem to have learned their lessons right well.



THE ELECTORAL VOTE.

The result of Tuesday's voting was the victorious election of Cleveland and Stevenson. The electoral votes will stand as follows;

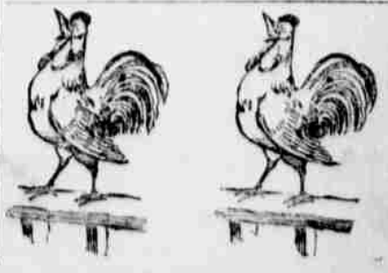
LOST.—On Tuesday afternoon, three ten dollar bills were lost on Main or Market streets. The finder will be suitably rewarded by returning same to this office.

Not a single state in the Union gave Harrison as large a vote as he received in 1888. Even his own State of Indiana voted against him, and his own County gave an increased Democratic majority. Montana the home of the Chairman of the Republican national Committee voted for Cleveland.

Aaron Smith of Hemlock township, brought to this office last Saturday a Turnip that weighed 8½ pounds It measured 29 inches around one way and 24 inches the other. He says it is a Bidwell turnip. It seems that it is to rapid a for a prohibitionist. However, if any of our Cleveland farmers can surpass it, let them bring around their product.

Capt A. B. jenison came up from Washington to cast his ballot on Tuesday.



ELECTION RETURNS.

Iowa.

DES MOINES, Nov. 9.—The Iowa State Register claims Iowa for the Republicans by a plurality of at least 10,000. Returns have been very slow in coming in. In seventeen precincts the Republicans have a net gain of 142 over Boies (Dem.) last year. He carried the state by 8,089 plurality. Weaver's poll shows gains over the Populist vote of last year. It is estimated by The Register that three-fourths of this gain comes from the Democratic party. The Prohibition vote will not exceed 6,000 or 7,000.

Nebraska.

OMAHA, Nov. 9.—It is claimed that Harrison has carried the state and that the entire Republican ticket is elected. There was a large falling off in the vote as compared with 1888. The Republican state ticket is probably elected by a plurality of from 10,000 to 15,000, except for treasurer and lieutenant governor, whose pluralities are probably smaller. Three Republican congressmen are probably returned, with three other districts close. The Republicans will control the legislature.

Wisconsin.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 9.—Wisconsin is certainly Democratic for Cleveland and Peck by from 10,000 to 15,000. Republicans concede state legislature, which will return a Democratic senator in place of Sawyer. The majority of the congressmen are Democrats. There were Republican gains all along the line, but the vote also showed gains over two years ago, and with the Democratic majority of 29,000 of that year at their back they stood firm and held the Republicans at bay.

West Virginia.

WHEELING, Nov. 9.—There is no reason to believe that West Virginia has left the Democratic column, and the Democratic state committee claims it by from 3,000 to 5,000. Democrats claim Alderson (Dem.) is re-elected to congress in the Third district by 500, but the probabilities seem favorable to Rucker, the Republican candidate. Davis (Rep.) for governor is leading his ticket from all indications. In this city there is a Democratic gain.

South Dakota.

PIERCE, Nov. 9.—The Democrats in this and adjoining counties voted for the Weaver electors, and it is apparent that the Populists have carried the state by from 3,000 to 5,000 votes. John A. Pickler (Rep.) and William Lardner (Pro.) are apparently elected representatives. Van Ordell, independent candidate for governor, claims his election. The vote of ten counties indicates that the vote is close between him and Sheldon.

North Carolina.

RALEIGH, Nov. 9.—Best figures obtainable show that Democrats have elected the entire state ticket by a larger majority than they expected. Returns show that national and state tickets ran closely together, the latter leading somewhat. Incomplete returns from congressional districts show that, so far, Republicans lead in the Second and Fifth, while in the other seven districts the Democrats are far in the lead.

Wyoming.

CHEYENNE, Nov. 9.—The vote was heavy throughout the state today. The Australian system was used. Conservative leaders say that the Democratic-Populist ticket has been victorious. There are counties near Yellowstone park, 500 miles away, not reached by wire. If the Democratic legislative ticket is successful it will send a Democrat to the United States senate in the place of Senator Francis E. Warren.

Maryland.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 9.—Maryland gives Cleveland about 10,000 plurality and elects five of six congressmen, a Democratic loss of one. McKaig (Dem.) is probably beaten by Wellington, (Rep.) in the Sixth district. In Baltimore city the Democratic plurality will be about 8,000. The Democrats elect twenty out of twenty-two councilmen. The deputy marshals caused trouble here today, and a number were arrested.

Kansas.

TOPEKA, Nov. 9.—The fusionists claim the state, but the Republican state committee on the returns at hand, showing gains in nearly every precinct in twelve counties, estimate that the Republicans have carried every congressional district. They also claim that Harrison has carried Kansas by 18,000 or 20,000; that the entire congressional delegation is returned and the legislature Republican.

New Hampshire.

CONCORD, Nov. 9.—The returns indicate that Harrison has carried the state by a plurality of about 2,000. There has been no election of governor by the people. The election will therefore be thrown into the legislature. Present indications are that the Republicans will have a larger majority in the lower branch of that body than they did two years ago. The senate will probably be Republican.

Vermont.

WHITE RIVER JUNCTION, Nov. 9.—Returns from fifty Vermont towns give the following vote: Harrison, 12,765; Cleveland, 7,006; Bidwell, 443; scattering, 6. Same in 1888 gave Harrison 14,739; Cleveland, 5,610, Fisk, 405. Republican vote shows decrease of 1,964, or 13 per cent., and the Democratic a decrease of 4, or 7-10 per cent.; the Prohibition a gain of 42, or 9 per cent.

Kentucky.

LEXINGTON, Nov. 9.—The day was clear and cool, and a large vote was polled throughout the state. Returns indicate that only a very light vote was cast by the People's party. The election was held under the Australian system, and returns are slow in coming in. Best advices indicate a Democratic plurality in the state of 25,000, a decrease of 3,000 over the vote of 1888.

Tennessee.

NASHVILLE, Nov. 9.—Two hundred and sixty-five thousand votes were polled in Tennessee. Cleveland's majority [illegible] 50,000. Weaver did not reach 10,000 in the state. Peter Turney, regular Democrat for governor, is elected over Winsted (Rep.) and Governor Buchanan (Ind.) by 30,000 majority. All Democrats are elected to congress.

Ohio.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 9.—The indications are that Harrison has carried the state by about 10,000 plurality. The entire Republican state ticket of minor offices, including secretary of state, judge of supreme court, clerk of supreme court and board of public works, has been elected. There is no legislative ticket this fall.

Washington.

PORTLAND, Or., Nov. 9.—Voting on all the tickets throughout Washington was exceptionally heavy, and many men were shut out from balloting in Seattle and Tacoma, the arrangements being very poor. Both parties claim the state with equal confidence, but Harrison is known to have polled heavier than was expected in outlying districts.

Nevada.

RENO, Nov. 9.—It is conceded by all parties that the Weaver electors have been chosen in Nevada by 1,500 plurality. Newland, silver party nominee, is elected to congress. The legislature is in doubt, but it is believed that the silver party will control it and re-elect Stewart to the United States senate.

Louisiana.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 9.—Enough returns are in to show that Cleveland has carried the state by about 60,000 majority. All the Democratic congressional candidates are elected. In the parishes where the People's candidates are thought to be strongest they cast a surprisingly small vote.

Texas.

GALVESTON, Nov. 9.—Partial returns from 100 towns give Clark (Ind. Dem.) a plurality for governor and indicate his election. It is impossible to get anything like complete returns of the vote of the state. Cleveland has a very large majority.

Colorado.

DENVER, Nov. 9.—Indications so far go to show that Weaver has carried the state and that the Populists have elected a majority in the legislature. The election of Bell (Dem.) for congress in the Second district is conceded.

Delaware.

WILMINGTON, Nov. 9.—Unofficial returns received up to 4 o'clock this morning indicate 1,600 majority for Cleveland in the state. A Democratic legislature has been chosen, insuring the re-election of Senator Gray.

Rhode Island.

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 9.—Rhode Island has given a good sized majority for Harrison and Reid. The returns give a Democratic plurality of 3,300 in this city. Harrison's plurality in the state will probably reach 2,500.

Arkansas.

LITTLE ROCK, Nov. 9.—Cleveland will carry the state by an estimated majority of from 20,000 to 25,000. The six congressmen from this state are claimed by Democrats. Terry's election is conceded by Republicans.

South Carolina.

CHARLESTON, Nov. 9.—Cleveland carried the state by about 50,000. Weaver polled about 5,000 votes. There was no opposition to the state ticket. Six of the seven congressmen sure for the Democrats.

North Dakota.

BISMARCK, Nov. 9.—Indications are that the Harrison electors have been chosen by 1,000 plurality. The Republican state ticket is probably elected by a small majority. Johnson is returned to congress.

Virginia.

RICHMOND, Nov. 9.—The chairman of the Democratic committee estimates Cleveland's majority to be 30,000. The indications are that the Democrats have elected all their congressmen.

Oregon.

PORTLAND, Nov. 9.—Twenty-one precincts in this state out of 645 give Harrison a majority of 41 over Weaver. To win Oregon Harrison must go out of Portland with 4,000 majority.

Florida.

JACKSONVILLE, Nov. 9.—Cleveland's majority will be between 25,000 and 30,000, a big increase over 1888. Both congressional districts are Democratic by large majorities.

Missouri.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 9.—The Democrats have probably carried Missouri by 35,000. They have elected every congressman in the state except in the Tenth district.

Idaho.

BOISE CITY, Nov. 9.—The Republicans have probably elected McConnell governor and Sweet congressman, and also their electoral ticket.

Mississippi.

JACKSON, Nov. 9.—This state gave the usual Democratic majority for the national ticket. Cleveland's majority is estimated at 20,000.

Georgia.

ATLANTA, Nov. 9.—Cleveland carries the state by 50,000 majority. A solid Democratic delegation to congress is elected.

Opinions of the New York Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The Sun says: There will be no force bill. Yesterday's victory disposes forever of the infamous project which menaced the rights of American citizenship and the peace of the nation. The conspiracy will never be revived. The twenty-third president of the United States will go out of office on the 4th of next March, having earned the respect and sincere esteem of his fellow countrymen.

The Herald: The people of the nation have spoken. Their verdict is, No English cheap labor. This is the result and the meaning of yesterday's election, in which protection, with its consequences, was the one great issue. The campaign was fought on protection. There was no issue on candidates, except as they stood for or against protection. There was no issue on parties except as they represented tariff for unlimited protection or tariff for public revenue.

The World: The voters have entered final judgment upon the verdict twice rendered by them in condemnation of the Republican policy and practices. The issues in a national election have never been more thoroughly debated or more generally understood. The will of the people must now become the law of the land. To defy them further, as the Republican senate and administration have done for two years past, would be moral treason.

The Tribune: It has been hoped that the splendid results attained under President Harrison's administration had placed beyond doubt the maintenance of the Republican party for years to come. A result in doubt is therefore most disappointing, and if it proves that a Democratic president and a Democratic congress have been elected the consequences to the business and the industries of the country will not be such as to insure that party a long lease of power.

The Advertiser: There is no accounting for it, save upon the ground that the farmers have fallen in with the Democratic idea that they would be better off if some of the wage earners and manufacturers of the country could be made poorer. They will have to be given time to recover from this hideous folly.

The Times: The Republican party remains with the great body of its voters as honest and as devoted to the best interests of the country as it has ever been. The powerful machinery of the party, which for at least eight years has been used by corrupt and unscrupulous men to serve the selfish ends of greedy monopolists as well as their own, is broken. It can never be reconstituted for like uses. The honest voters who in the past have blindly supported it are no longer numerous enough to restore it.

MR. CLEVELAND'S MOVEMENTS.

He Votes Early and Receives the News of His Election Quietly.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—It was just three minutes past 11 o'clock when General Daniel Butterfield, the man ahead of Mr. Cleveland, cast his vote. Then the chairman of the election inspectors sang out:

"Twelve West Fifty-first street, Grover Cleveland. What is his ballot number?"

"One hundred and eighty-six," replied the inspector in charge of the ballots.

At 11:04 Mr. Cleveland entered his booth, and then Sinclair, his butler, received ballot 187. Sinclair went into an adjoining booth. He was first to come out again, with his ballots properly folded.

"He votes everything!" shouted the chairman. Just then Mr. Cleveland came out. It was then 11:08½ o'clock. Mr. Cleveland handed his ballots to the chairman and saw them properly inserted in the boxes. He, too, voted "everything." Sinclair preceded him on the way out. Several men lifted their hats to Mr. Cleveland, and one stepped out of the line and seized Mr. Cleveland's hand. Mr. Cleveland bowed and smiled. When he reached the sidewalk the crowd waiting for him set up a cheer. Several men in the polling place cheered also, and one gray haired man swung his hat and yelled until his friends choked him off. The guard was waiting to escort him back to his house. One of the policemen fell in, and the crowd followed.

Mr. Cleveland gave at his house, 12 West Fifty-first street, last night what might be called an "election party."

He had a special wire run into his library, which is the second floor front room, and invited a party of personal friends to sit up with Mrs. Cleveland and himself and receive the returns.

Mr. Cleveland about midnight began to receive telegrams of congratulation from friends in this city.

He was called out of his residence at an early hour this morning by a crowd of a thousand or so enthusiastic young men from the Democratic national headquarters. They stood before the house and cheered until he appeared upon the steps with several gentlemen. In response to cries for a speech Mr. Cleveland said: "This seems to be the hour for rejoicing. We have earned a grand victory. I attribute it to the splendid work of Tammany Hall."

Tremendous cheers greeted Mr. Cleveland's remarks and the noise woke up all the people in the block.

How Mr. Harrison Received the News.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—President Harrison retired at midnight. He knew early in the evening that he had been defeated. He received the unwelcome intelligence with his usual composure. He is a self contained man, who doesn't—outwardly at least—give expression to his feelings. He spent the evening in the cabinet room, and the bulletins of the press associations were brought to him from the private secretary's office across the hall by a messenger. With him were his daughter, Mrs. McKee, and her two cousins, Mrs. Dimmick and Mrs. Parker. Excepting the ladies the other persons present were Lieutenant Parker, Mr. Russell Harrison, Secretaries Tracy and Foster and Attorney General Miller.

THE DUKE OF MARLBOROUGH DEAD.

He Was Married to an American Lady by Mayor Hewitt.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—George Charles Spencer Churchill, duke of Marlborough, was this morning found dead in his bed in Blenheim palace, Woodstock. He was forty-eight years of age. He served as a lieutenant in the Royal Horse guards. On Nov. 8, 1888, he was married to Lady Albertha Frances Anne Hamilton, sixth daughter of James, the first duke of Abercorn, and they have a son, Charles Richard John, born Nov. 13, 1871. This son now becomes Duke of Marlborough. They also have three daughters.

Lady Albertha secured a divorce from the Duke of Marlborough on her own petition in 1883, on account of her husband's marital infidelity. The duke remained unmarried until June 29, 1888, when he was married by Mayor Hewitt at the city hall, New York, to Lady Warren Hammersley, widow of Louis Hammersley, and daughter of Cicero Price, a commodore in the United States navy. Mrs. Hammersley was left a considerable fortune by her former husband, a portion of which was used to aid the duke in refitting Blenheim House and otherwise restoring his somewhat impaired condition.

The late duke was descended from the great English commander, John Churchill, whose military career is one of the most brilliant in British history, Blenheim house being named after his famous victory at Blenheim. In reward for his military services, Churchill, who had previously been created Earl of Marlborough, was made Duke of Marlborough and received a grant from Queen Anne, with the consent of parliament, of the royal manor of Woodstock and the hundred of Wooton, in Oxfordshire. Here the splendid palace at Blenheim was erected.

The Paris Explosion.

PARIS, Nov. 9.—Premier Loubet conferred yesterday evening with the public prosecutor, and the prefect of police has decided to prosecute several militant anarchists who have been inciting others to violence, whether they have themselves been guilty of outrage or not. Lefrapper, son of one of the directors of the Carmaux company, states that five minutes before the discovery of the infernal machine he met a woman on the stairs carrying a curious parcel. He took careful notice of the woman's appearance, and the police are acting upon this clew.

HOW WAS ONE TO KNOW?

It had been a dismal, wet day, and night fell early on the low, foggy country lying between Scranton and Pardyville crossroads. An old man and a girl of about sixteen years of age were struggling alone through the darkness, bespatted with mud and almost worn out with fatigue.

"It's a long seven mile, I reckon—eh, Myra?" said the old man as he stooped to rest for a moment on his oaken staff.

The girl gave him her arm once more. "You must let me help you," said she. "We are not halfway there yet."

"John couldn't ha' got my letter," said the old man, or he'd ha' been at the depot with a wagon. It'll be a hard blow to John when he finds out the old place is sold and gone, but how was one to know? We've had lots of bad luck, Myra," he added, plaintively. "I hope he won't blame me, although if I had known we might ha' pulled through."

"Father," said Myra, "you did all that could be done. If Mr. Enwick had lived you would not have had to pay the note, for he was an honest man. It's an act of Providence and will come out all right in the end."

"Yes, Myra; I don't want to be goin' agin Providence, but John had his heart set so on the old place, and now it's gone. How was one to know that Mr. Enwick would ha' been killed so sudden'? You hev those minin' certificates, I s'pose, Myra?" said the old man, after a long silence.

"Yes," said Myra, "I put them away in our bundle."

"I'm glad o' that, Myra, for though they ain't worth nothin' now, they'll kind o' remind me when I feel like complainin' that Brother Enwick would ha' saved us if he could."

The roadway, filled with miry chuckholes and lined on either side with stones and brambly bushes, became almost impassable. The old man's breath came faster and faster. Myra supported him now all the while. He had long since stopped talking, and Myra knew that it would only exhaust him more and so kept silent. The darkness deepened until at last all objects were undiscernible, except that here and there the light from the kitchen window of some farmhouse struggled out into the foggy night. It was late when they stood at John's door and knocked for admission. The inmates had retired and it took some time to arouse them.

"Who's there?" roared a rough voice from the interior.

At the answer there were some imprecations in an undertone, whether at the darkness, the cat or the visitors is hard to tell, but finally the key turned and John stood in the doorway with a candle in his hand.

"How in thunder did you get here such a night as this?" was his affectionate welcome.

"We walked!" answered Myra, for the old man had sunk into a chair almost too exhausted to speak.

"Howdy, John," he murmured; "you didn't get my letter, I s'pose?"

"I got it," said John, "but you didn't think me sech a fool as to drive to town through sech roads as this, did ye?"

"I meant nothin', John; we was able to walk," and the old man raised his weary head and tried to look cheerful.

"So the old place is gone," said the son in a low voice.

"Yes, John; Providence sees fit to make me poor in my old days and we've come to live with you. Myra'll be a great help and chore around."

"Providence, did you say?" retorted John. "It was nothing but blasted foolishness. You might ha' known more than sign that note, and as for Myra, what use will she be 'round here, I'd like to know? But hang up your duds; it's late and we've a day's work 'head of us to-morrer. You can sleep in the loft bed and Myra can crawl in with the hired girl," and without a word more he ushered them weary and supperless to their miserable beds.

When at last the old man fell asleep there were tear-marks on his withered cheeks. Myra rose and crept to the door of his room. "I couldn't ha' helped it, John," she heard him murmur in his restless slumber. "Brother Enwick means well and it kind o' seems that Providence must ha' done it. I'll chore 'round, and Myra is so good we'll make no trouble." The sky had cleared and a bright moonlight was now shining into the room. There was an anxious, pleading look on the old man's face. Suddenly he stretched out his arms. "Oh, John," he cried, "look at me as you used to do when you was a leetle boy, when you put your arms 'round my neck and kissed me. You was the purtiest boy them days." He smiled at some happy remembrance. Myra stooped and kissed him and again he smiled. "I'll do it," she said to herself. "Brother John is a brute."

The next morning when her father woke Myra was at his bedside. "Father," said Myra, "I'm going back to Scranton to-day to find work. John will not think so hard of us if we take care of ourselves."

The old man tried to remonstrate, but she quieted his fears. "Soon as I get a place I will send for you to come, and we will live together."

Her father smiled through his tears. "God bless you, my daughter," he murmured, as she nestled her head on his shoulders.

John gave vent to his approval of the proposition by hitching up the team immediately after breakfast to take her to town. She found work in a store, and although the salary was barely enough to support one comfortably, she sent for her father a week later. Myra's prudent management made ends meet, and they lived happily together in their humble apartments. At night Myra would read aloud until the old man grew sleepy, and then she would assist him to his bed, for he was more feeble now than when he took the long walk to his son's house. John came to see them at long intervals, but his father was made none the happier by these visits, for, somehow, John always managed to suggest that it was "foolishness" that lost the old place, and the old man would pitifully answer: "How was one to know, John—how was one to know?"

As a rule, the people of Scranton paid little attention to Myra and her father. Their poverty forced them to live a quiet, retired life. Myra had a slight acquaintance with the son of her employer, young Clarence Wilbur, Jr. He was about to be admitted into partnership with his father, and people regarded him as one of the coming men of Scranton. He belonged to a family that boasted a line of ancestors traceable back into the misty past. Clarence, however, made little of it, and his plebian associations sometimes aroused the remonstrance of his aristocratic parents. His answers were always based on his philosophic notion that "a man's a man for a' that."

One pleasant Sunday afternoon while enjoying a stroll he passed the house where Myra and her father resided. The window was open to admit the refreshing air. Myra was reading aloud to her father one of those matchless romances of Hawthorne, and the clear, expressive intonation of the words penetrated the outer world and caught Clarence's attention. He stopped and listened.

"I swear," he said to himself, after she had finished, "that girl is a fine reader." He resolved to learn something of her circumstances, and so called one day to see her father, ostensibly on business, but really to catch a glimpse of the interior of their little home. Myra was away, but he found the old man cheerful and glad to talk. The room was plainly furnished but very neat and orderly arranged. A little book-case filled with choice reading, a few simple pictures on the wall, here and there a piece of bric-a-brac artistically arranged, and a boquet of wild flowers in the window, were about all, but it seemed homelike, and Clarence was not averse to calling again "when Myra would be at home," as the old man expressed it in his earnest invitation.

"Myra," said the old man, "is a-goin' to be a school-teacher. She is a powerful scholar already, and you will always find her studyin' when the work's done. She uses too much of the night for it sometimes, it seems to me, but she has set her mind on't. Myry is only my adopted daughter—I s'pose you didn't know that?"

Clarence looked a negative.

Myra passed the examinations with credit and obtained a situation. A happy girl she was and the children thought there never had been another such teacher. Clarence called at her home from time to time and occasionally dropped in at school. Myra liked him and it was evident that he liked her. As time passed he saw her more frequently, and one evening as they stood at the garden gate he breathed the question with fear and trembling.

"Yes; Myry is too smart to be a Bardwell; but, bless ye, she's more'n a daughter to me. John, that's my boy, he found fault when I tuk her, but I says: 'Her father was my oldest friend, and I'd ha' wanted him to do the same by you had I died when you were leetle,' so she come into our house. This was when we had a place of our own, with good horses and money in the bank, but bad luck followed and Myry's done all the carin.'" There were tears in the old man's eyes as he recounted the whole history of their troubles. Clarence went away strangely affected.

When his father heard of the engagement he said: "All I've got to say, Clarence, is that you are a bigger fool than I ever took you for—that girl has neither money no station."

"But she has character, and that is something in this world," answered Clarence.

Time rolled by and at last there came the wedding day. The morning was glorious, just such a one as they would have chosen. Clarence's new home stood ready. It was the pride of the city and the largest and sunniest room of all was reserved for Myra's father.

On the eventful morning Clarence read something in the Bulletin that made him thoughtful. He donned his hat and went to see Myra. "Myra," said he, "your father has some certificates in mines that never panned out. Will you let me see them?"

She went into the house and brought out a little package. His hands shook as he untied the ribbon. His face grew very pale. "Myra," said he, "do you know that they have struck a new bed of ore in the Ingram gulch mine? Mr. Mason, of Huckleyville doesn't own half what these certificates represent, but he has made his fortune. Your father is undoubtedly wealthier than any man in Scranton."

The old man could hardly comprehend it but it proved true.

After Myra and her husband returned from their trip he said to them: "I've bought back the old place and John shall have it when I die."

John got it but he wasn't satisfied. Somehow, it looked "an awful mean, paltry sum. He'd leave me a beggar while that hussy goes in silks and diamonds," he growled to his wife, and she growled in reply: "You might ha' used him decent and got it all of you hadn't been such a fool."

But she was unreasonable, for "how was one to know."—Chicago News.

The Autumn and Winter exhibit of dress fabrics is novel, elegant, most bewildering in variety and suited to all purses and tastes. Plain and fancy camel's hair serges, a gorgeous array of changeable velvets, velours ecossais' veloutine ombree, Scotch plaids, new stuffs in gay Persian, Turkish and Russian colors, silk and wool jacquards, fancy satines and bengalines that are short, striped, plaided, basketwoven and irridescent are some of the novelties from over the sea These fabrics come in such an artistic diversity that they require an abundance of appropriate models. To this end new designs, from the picturesque, historic and classic modes, to the plain and practical tailor gowns, are constantly created. The McDowell Fashion Journals, published at 4 West 14th St., New York, are the first to publish these models and present them in an infinite variety, intended to meet all tastes and circumstances of life. "Paris Album of Fashion" and "La Mode De Paris" are used by the most stylish dress-makers. It is the medicine above all others for catarrh, and it is worth its weight in gold. I thank God I have found a remedy I can use with safety and that does all that is claimed for it. The plague of breaking lamp-chimneys is abroad in the land. There are two sorts of chimneys; brittle and tough. Ninety-nine in a hundred are brittle. The worst are imported from Germany. The best are Macbeth's "Pearl-top" & "Pearl-glass."

Two sorts as to workmanship; fine and coarse. The fine are Macbeth's "Pearl-top" and "Pearl-glass." The coarse are rough and out of proportion; misfits and misshapen; they do not make a good draft; they smoke.

Two sorts as to glass; transparent and gray. "Pearl-top" and "Pearl-glass" are clear, fine and tough—not tough against accident—tough against heat.

Call for "Pearl-top" or "Pearl-glass" chimneys.

The English Girl.

From the New York Evening Sun.

One thing the American learns abroad, from the standpoint of the international pension, is that his own girls are models of respectful demeanor to their superiors compared with upper class English girls. At Beaulieu were two young English girls, whose brother is a lord of high degree, and whose names are constantly read in the record of gay doings. They were there with their mother, who had some ailment requiring a change of climate. They would come into the public dining room. "Where is she, Violet?" "Oh, she'll be around here soon." "She" was their mother.

One of them had taken a studio at Cannes, which furnished the occasion of their getting off, in spite of their mother's protests, and leaving the old lady to wander alone among the country roads. "Tell her we are going to Cannes this afternoon, Violet." "Tell her yourself. She'll be next you." Then this daughter would calmly say, in a loud tone, for her mother was slightly deaf, "We're going to Cannes this afternoon." The old lady would mumble her protests over her plate. "We're going, anyway," said the daughter, as a finality, and the two would laugh.

They were young girls; but to Cannes they went, and unattended. If American girls should behave thus at a foreign table, in how many ways would we not hear of it? It is but fair to say that the English middle-class girl accords better with the ideal we have all formed of the modest, retiring, respectful demeanor of the daughters of that isle.

Not long ago an outcry was raised over the adulteration of lard. It was alleged that cotton-seed oil, suet, and common greases were being mixed with hog fat for the purpose of producing a cheaper article. This stage of the competition between the manufacturers of lard seems to have passed, for the markets are offering housekeepers and cooks a cheapened grease similar in nature, but which frankly comes out under a name that is honest enough to allay any suspicion of deception and adulteration. Instead of being made from the flare or leaves of hog fat, this substance has in it cotton seed oil suet, and so is called Cottolene. It received attention at the New York food show, and was cooked into pie crust and crullers, and used for frying, before crowds which tested the articles cooked. There is nothing odoriferous or hoggy about it, the taste imparted to food cooked in it, or of which it is an ingredient, is not fatty, and it is held to be generally superior to lard for shortening and frying purposes. Without criticising or recommending the use of Cottolene, there is something pleasant in noting the sincerity of the manufacture and sale of Cottolene, and in the suggestion that it neither produces dyspepsia nor spoil complexions.

Tried to Cremate His Wife

HAZLETON, November 7.—Several days ago Stephen Andrews, of Yorktown, quarreled with his wife. He accused her of flirting with a man in the village store and, when she indignantly denied his charges, he became very sulky and left the house. Yesterday he returned in an intoxicated condition and renewed the quarrel. Mrs. Andrews, who is a handsome woman and has always been looked upon by her neighbors as a model housewife, then told her husband that she would go home to her parents.

This so angered the man that he dealt her a heavy blow in the face and beat her into insensibility. He then left her lying on the floor. It was believed that he had gone away and this morning Mrs. Andrews prepared to go to her home. While engaged at this work her husband again appeared. He told her he was going to kill her. The woman becoming frightened rushed for the door. Andrews caught her by the hair as she was passing.

He then tied her securely so she could not leave and went up stairs. He soon returned, carrying with him a bed tick filled with straw and the bed cord, and having bound his wife in the tick, set fire to the straw.

Charles Tonner, foreman of the Yorktown shops, heard the woman's screams and burst in the door. He was savagely attacked by Andrews, but succeeded in knocking the latter senseless and rescuing the wife, who was terribly burned. Andrews has disappeared and a posse is now after him.

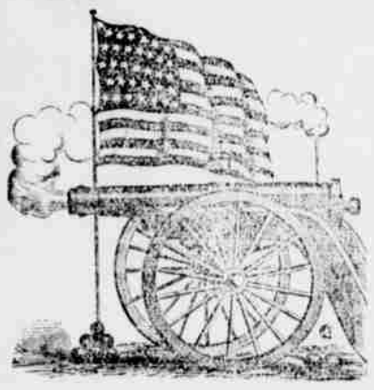
A DEMOCRATIC WHIRLWIND!

CLEVELAND SWEEPS THE COUNTRY.



THE REPUBLICANS KNOCKED OUT.

DEFEAT.

The Republicans have conducted the campaign just closed with every confidence in their success. The influences in their favor were the fact that they had control of the government, with an army of employees all working for the re election of Harrison; the wealthy protected monopolists poured out their money like water for the continuance of a system of taxation that has put money in their coffers for years; the country is in a prosperous condition, and it was argued by their speakers and papers that a change of administration would affect business and bring about a stringency in the money market. It was urged that the Democracy if successful would abolish National Banks, and return to the old system of state banks and this bugaboo was flaunted at every political meeting all over the country in the face of the voters.

On the other hand the Democrats relied on their policy of a tariff for revenue only; on the record of their illustrious candidates, Grover Cleveland and Adlai E. Stevenson, on the McKinley bill that taxes the favored classes at the expense of the masses; on the iniquity of the Force bill that has received the unqualified endorsement of Benjamin Harrison, and on the principle that public office is a public trust. On these issues the battle was fought, and the people have decided that the views of the Democratic party were those most worthy of support, and the verdict has been so recorded in tones that cannot be mistaken.

PEOPLE'S VERDICT

Cleveland and Stevenson Are Elected.

CONGRESS IS DEMOCRATIC.

"Tariff Reform" and "No Force Bill," the Democrats Say.

A Close Vote in Many States—New York City's Vote Unprecedented — Indiana and Illinois Claimed by Both Parties. Weaver Carries the West.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Grover Cleveland has been elected president, and the indications are that his plurality in the electoral college will be the largest in twenty years. His majority of the popular vote is much greater than it was eight years ago.

DEMOCRATIC CONGRESS.

House Contains 224 Democrats and 123 Republicans.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Additional returns received this morning indicate that the house of representatives in the Fifty-third congress will contain as the result of yesterday's election 224 Democrats, 123 Republicans and 7 fusionists or Farmers' Alliance.

Rhode Island failed to elect either candidate for representative, but the probabilities favor the choice of the two Republicans. This would make the total opposition vote in the house 132, and the Democratic majority 92. In the present house, with all the districts represented, the Democratic majority is 138, a loss of 46.

NEW YORK.

Overwhelming Majority for Cleveland.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Kings county has rolled up a plurality of 20,000 for Cleveland and Stevenson. The entire Democratic city and county ticket has been elected by pluralities of over 20,000. The five congressmen in Kings county are also Democrats. John H. Graham, the Democratic candidate in the Fifth congressional district, which is a Republican stronghold, has beaten Charles G. Bennett, the Republican candidate, by over 1,200 plurality.

In New York city Cleveland and Stevenson's plurality over Harrison and Reid is 76,947. The total vote cast for president was about 280,000, including the votes cast for the Socialistic, Prohibition and Populist tickets.

Cleveland polled over 174,000 and Harrison over 97,000. It was a clean sweep for the Democracy and Tammany Hall. The city sends a solid Democratic delegation to the assembly. Assemblyman Timothy "Dry Dollar" Sullivan has evidently a big pull in his election district. It gave Cleveland 388 votes and Harrison 4 votes.

The Republicans made great gains in Albany because of a difference between the Democratic hosts of that city. Four years ago Albany county gave Cleveland a plurality of 1,675. This year it is 825, a loss of 850 votes.

That was almost balanced, however, by the vote cast in Alleghany county. Harrison got there yesterday 2,800 as against 3,442 four years ago, a loss of 641 for the Republican candidate.

Broome county, always a banner Republican district, gave a larger plurality for Harrison this time than before. The vote there was 2,340. In the last campaign it gave a plurality of 1,958 for Harrison.

In Cattaraugus, however, the Republicans fell off 133. It was 2,300 this time. It was in Cayuga county the Republican majority of four years ago was reduced by almost a thousand.

Then Cayuga gave Harrison 3,266, and that was cut down to 2,280. Chautauqua did the same thing, for there was a difference of just 830 in the plurality for the Republican candidate. In 1888 Harrison got there a plurality of 5,930. Yesterday that was cut down to 5,100.

In Chemung, which comprises the city of Elmira, and is the home of Senator David B. Hill, there was a gain for the Republican ticket. Four years ago Cleveland got a plurality of 570. This time the Republicans carried it by 741.

Chenango, as was general with very nearly all the counties beyond the Harlem, also showed a decline. One thousand five hundred and forty-seven was the plurality given Harrison there in 1888, as against 1,131 this year.

In Clinton county there was another falling off of from 1,547 to 450 for the Republicans.

In 1888 Columbia went Republican by a plurality of 410, while the returns this morning showed it to have been carried for Cleveland by a plurality of 425. Cortland four years ago gave Harrison a plurality of 1,569 and 1,272 yesterday.

Delaware county stands with Broome in having given an increased Republican majority. Harrison ran ahead of Cleveland there 1,575 votes. Four years ago the Republicans carried the county by 1,270. The falling off in Dutchess was heavy. Yesterday the Republican plurality there was 421 while in 1888 it was 1,016.

Erie county, which is the city of Buffalo and the home of Cleveland, came out strong for him this time. It was carried for Harrison by a plurality of 2,000 in the first campaign between them. Yesterday Cleveland carried Erie by 1,200.

In Essex county Harrison received there a plurality of 1,800, as against 2,113 in 1888. There was about the same loss for him in Franklin, in which he got a plurality of 2,729 four years ago and 2,480 yesterday.

There were losses in Fulton and Hamilton counties that were equaled by those in Genesee, Herkimer, Livingston, Madison, Monroe, Montgomery, Niagara and Oneida.

In Onondago there was a bad loss of over 2,000 votes for the Republicans. In Ontario, Orleans, Oswego, Otsego, Putnam, Richmond, St. Lawrence, Steuben, Sullivan, Warren, Washington, Wayne, Westchester and Wyoming counties the falling off in the Republican vote from what it was four years ago was marked.

In Greene county, where Cleveland had a plurality of 34 the first time he ran against Harrison, he received yesterday a plurality of 128. Harrison had 351 votes more in his plurality in Jefferson county than he had four years ago, while in Lewis county he gained just 18. Orange gave him 16 more than before. Then his plurality in the great dairy district was 409. This time it was 425.

Rensselaer went for Harrison by 308 in 1888. Yesterday Cleveland carried it by 400. Richmond did not give Cleveland as large a plurality as it did four years ago. One thousand, six hundred and sixty-four was his plurality in 1888. This time it is 1,550. Rockland county gave a Democratic increase of 24 votes. Harrison gained slightly in Schoharie, Schenectady, Schuyler, Suffolk, Tioga, Tompkins and Ulster counties. In Seneca he had a gain of two. The Republicans predicted big gains in Seneca.

New York's Congressmen.

Republican—Eighteenth, Jacob Lefevre; Twenty-second, N. M. Curtis; Twenty-third, John M. Weaver; Twenty-fourth, Charles A. Chicking; Twenty-fifth, James S. Sherman; Twenty-sixth, George W. Ray; Twenty-seventh, James J. Belden; Twenty-eighth, Sereno E. Payne; Twenty-ninth, Charles W. Gillett; Thirtieth, James W. Wadsworth; Thirty-first, John Van Voorhis; Thirty-third, Charles Daniels; Thirty-fourth, Warren B. Hooker. Total, 13.

Democrat—First, James W. Covert; Second, John M. Clancy; Third, Joseph C. Hendrix; Fourth, William J. Coombe; Fifth, John H. Graham; Sixth, Thomas F. Magner; Seventh, Franklin Bartlett; Eighth, Edward J. Dunphy; Ninth, Timothy J. Campbell; Tenth, Daniel E. Sickles; Eleventh, Amos J. Cummings; Twelfth, W. Bourke Cockran; Thirteenth, John De Witt Warner; Fourteenth, J. R. Fellows; Fifteenth, Ashbel P. Fitch; Sixteenth, William Ryan; Seventeenth, Henry M. Bacon; Nineteenth, Charles H. Haines; Twentieth, Charles Tracy; Twenty-first, Schemerhorn—total, 21.

The only district in which the result as stated in the above table is doubtful is the Eighteenth, where the Democrats claim that Cox is elected.

The New York Legislature.

ALBANY, Nov. 9.—Speaker Bush, in Senator Hill's county, was defeated.

From present appearances the Democrats will have a majority of twenty in the Assembly.

New Jersey.

TRENTON, Nov. 9.—Special dispatches from every county in the state show that the state has given not less than 8,000 majority to the national ticket. Though the Republicans claim to have elected Kean governor by majorities varying from 1,000 to 3,000, it is certain that Judge Werts is elected by something over 3,000 majority. The State Gazette, the Republican organ of the state, concedes his election by about 5,000. For congress the Democrats have elected at least five and possibly six of their candidates. They have maintained their majorities in both branches of the legislature. The majorities below are estimated:

First district, H. C. Loudenslager (Rep.); Second district, John J. Gardner (Rep.); Third district, J. A. Geisenheimer (Dem.); Fourth district, Johnson Cornish (Dem.); Fifth district, Cornelius Cadmus (Dem.); Sixth district, Thomas Dunn English (Dem.); Seventh district, George B. Fielder (Dem.); Eighth district, John T. Dunn (Dem.) The assembly will stand—Democrats, 46; Republicans, 20.

Passaic county complete gives Harrison 11,498; Cleveland, 10,963. Plurality for Harrison, 535, a loss of 1,000 over 1888. Kean, for governor, 11,578; Werts, 10,850. Plurality for Kean, 728, a loss of 1,000 over 1889. Cornelius A. Cademus (Dem.) is elected to congress in this district. John I. Hall (Rep.), Frank Gledhill (Rep.) and Thomas Flynn (Dem.) have been elected to the assembly.

Complete returns for Somerset county give Cleveland a plurality of 111. J. A. Geissenhainer is elected to congress for this county by 73 majority. The complete returns also give Werts, for governor, a plurality of 35. George H. Cramer (Dem.) is elected to the assembly by 67 majority.

NEWARK, Nov. 9.—The Democratic victory is a popular one in this city. The Democrats here have elected their county clerk, congressmen and eight out of the eleven assemblymen. This is a Republican gain of one assemblyman.

Pennsylvania.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9.—Harrison's plurality in Pennsylvania is 74,860, his majority in Philadelphia being 32,552. The congressional delegation includes 18 Republicans and 10 Democrats, an increase of 1 Republican, as follows: First District, Henry H. Bingham (Rep.); Second, Charles O'Neill (Rep.); Third, William McAleer (Dem.); Fourth, John E. Reyburn (Rep.); Fifth, A. C. Harmy (Rep.); Sixth, John B. Robinson (Rep.); Seventh, E. W. Hallowell (Dem.); Eighth, William D. Mutchler (Dem.); Ninth, C. J. Erdman (Dem.); Tenth, Marriott Brosius (Rep.); Eleventh, J. A. Scranton (Rep.); Twelfth, William H. Hines (Dem.); Thirteenth, James B. Reilly (Dem.); Fourteenth, E. M. Woomer (Rep.); Fifteenth, M. B. Wright (Rep.); Sixteenth, W. C. Hopkins (Rep.); Seventeenth, S. P. Wolverton (Dem.); Eighteenth, P. M. Mahon (Rep.); Nineteenth, F. E. Beltzhoover (Dem.); Twentieth, Joseph D. Hocks (Rep.); Twenty-first, D. B. Helner (Rep.); Twenty-second, John Dalzell (Rep.); Twenty-third, W. A. Stone (Rep.); Twenty-fourth, E. F. Acheson (Rep.); Twenty-fifth, T. W. Phillips (Rep.); Twenty-sixth, J. C. Sibley (Dem.); Twenty-seventh, C. W. Stone (Rep.); Twenty-eighth, George F. Kribbs (Dem.). William Lilly (Rep.) and Alexander McDowell (Rep.) are the congressmen at large. The legislature will be safely Republican. This will practically assure the re-election of Matthew Quay to the United States senate.

Indiana.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 9.—Both parties are claiming Indiana. The vote on the state is close. Secretary Reilly, of the Democratic state committee, makes a statement, acquiesced in by Chairman Taggart, that Cleveland will have the state by 5,000. This is based upon returns from county chairmen. Republican state headquarters were not open until late this morning. Chairman Gowdy arose with the impression that the state had gone for Harrison. He will not concede that the Democrats have it. The legislature is Democratic, and the Democrats have probably elected eight congressmen, with a possibility of one more. Returns are not entirely satisfactory because the vote is so close. Not enough precincts have been heard from to make an estimate absolutely trustworthy. The Republican gains over 1890 have been constant, and if maintained would give the state to Harrison by a few hundred. There are 2,995 precincts in the state. The gain must be seven to the precinct over 1890 to give Indiana to the Republicans. The News (Ind.) says that the indications are that the Democrats have been successful in the state by a small majority. Marion county will be Democratic by 500 to 700. This figure may be greatly changed by later returns.

Massachusetts.

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—Returns from Massachusetts are unprecedentedly slow in coming in. The Republican electoral ticket will probably pull through. Returns in Springfield indicate that Harrison will have about half of his plurality of 33,000 in 1888. The Democratic committee claims Governor Russell's re-election by from 1,500 to 2,000 plurality. Returns from the congressional districts indicate a gain of four congressmen for the Republicans. General Draper defeated George Fred Williams in the Eleventh district. Gillett in the Second, Walker in the Third, Cogswell in the Sixth, Lodge in the Seventh, Morse in the Twelfth and Randall in the Thirteenth—all Republicans—are elected. In the Tenth McEttick (Ind. Dem.) is elected, and in the Fourth Apsley (Rep.) is thought to have defeated Coolidge. Crosby (Dem.) and Stevens (Dem.) are probably elected in the First and Fifth districts, and the Eighth district is claimed by both McCall and Andrew, with the chances apparently in favor of McCall (Rep.).

Michigan.

DETROIT, Nov. 9.—In Michigan the Republicans carry the state for Rich for governor by 8,000, the whole Republican ticket having the same majority. The probabilities are that the Republicans have the legislature, though the Democratic and Populist fusion may give them a majority. In congress districts the following are elected: First, Chipman (Dem.); Second, Gorman (Dem.); Third, Burrows (Rep.); Fourth, Thomas (Rep.); Fifth, Richardson (Dem.); Sixth, Aitken (Rep.); Seventh, Whiting (Dem.); Eighth, Linton (Rep.); Ninth, Wheeler (Dem.), probably elected; Tenth, both sides claim congressmen; Eleventh, disputed by both parties; Twelfth, Republican elected. Cleveland gets the Eastern, First, Second, Third, Fifth and Ninth electoral districts. Wayne county, in which Detroit, a Democratic city, is located, elects possibly one Democratic county officer. All others elected by Republicans by majorities of from 2,000 to 6,000.

Illinois.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—Illinois has probably gone Democratic by from 10,000 to 20,000. Chicago gives the Democratic ticket a plurality of 30,000. Altgeld is elected governor over Fifer (Rep.). Chairman Clark, of the Democratic state committee, says, "Cleveland has carried Illinois by 15,000, and Altgeld (Dem.) is elected governor." The News special gives Cleveland the state by 20,000. Illinois cast the heaviest vote in the history of the state. Apathy prevailed in every precinct throughout the state during the campaign, but this apathy gave way to an unprecedented activity and all parties polled practically their entire vote. The surprise of the day is the little disparity between the Cleveland and Altgeld vote. It was expected that Altgeld, the German Democratic candidate for governor, would lead the presidential ticket by many thousands, but returns as far as received do not indicate this result.

Connecticut.

HARTFORD, Nov. 9.—The vote in this state, with one town missing, gives: Cleveland, 82,400; Harrison, 76,083; Weaver, 3,964; scattering, 1,095. Cleveland's plurality, 5,417. Four years ago it was 396. The entire Democratic ticket is probably elected, the vote on governor being: Morris (Dem.), 83,269; Merwin (Rep.), 76,402; Augur (Pro.), 549; scattering, 113. Morris' majority (required by the constitution), 1,115. Lewis Sperry (Dem.) is re-elected to congress from the First district by 547. James P. Piggott (Dem.) is elected in the Second district by 2,840. Charles M. Russell (Rep.) is re-elected in the Third district by 527, a falling off of 465 votes from two years ago. Robert E. DeForest (Dem.) is re-elected from the Fourth district by 2,091. The state senate is a tie and the Republicans have about 20 majority in the house.

Maine.

PORTLAND, Nov. 9.—One hundred and seventy-seven towns in Maine give Harrison 42,089; Cleveland, 31,465; scattering, 3,034. The same towns in 1888 gave Harrison 43,347; Cleveland, 32,060; scattering, 2,597. Republican plurality now, 10,624; Republican plurality then, 11,287. If the remaining towns come in with the same rate of loss the total vote will stand: Harrison, 64,000; Cleveland, 49,500; scattering, 5,000; a total vote of 118,500 and a Republican plurality of 14,500, against 23,258 in 1888, when the vote stood: Harrison, 73,780; Cleveland, 50,472; scattering, 4,035; total, 128,287. The Republican plurality in September was 12,412, so that the gain will be 2,000.

Minnesota.

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 9.—The returns received up to a late hour are meager, but the indications are that the Republicans have elected Nelson governor. The Democrats claim the election of four fusion electors. They concede Nelson's election. The legislature is in doubt, but is likely to be controlled by the fusionists. The Republicans claim a majority for Nelson of 15,000 to 25,000. Cleveland ran ahead of the Democratic state ticket. The Democrats concede defeat in this city. The returns show a falling off in both Populist and Democratic votes.

Alabama.

BIRMINGHAM, Nov. 9.—The latest figures in Alabama are that Cleveland has won by 20,000. The Democrats have made gains in all the other counties except two, and in some have overcome majorities of 1,000. The black belt will give a smaller majority than in August, the vote of the negroes being divided between Cleveland, Weaver and the straight Harrison ticket. The Democrats have elected six congressmen. The Populists seem to have elected Frank Baltzel in the Second and William Whatley in the Fifth. The Fourth district is in doubt.

For instance, Mrs. Chas. Rogers, of Bay City, Mich., accidentally spilled scalding water over her little boy. She promptly applied De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve, giving instant relief. It's a wonderfully good salve for burns, bruises, sores, and a sure cure for piles. W. S. Rishton, Druggist. 10-14-1y

How Dignitaries Were Brought.

MAGNIFICENT TRAINS RUN OVER THE PENNSYLVANIA SYSTEM.

One of the most important and successful features in connection with the dedicatory exercises of the World's Fair grounds, and one which fully illustrates the wonderful progress which our country has made within the last half century, was the movement made by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company of the cabinet officers, the supreme court justices, and the diplomatic corps from Washington to this city and back. It required three special trains to perform this function, and Vice-President Frank Thomson, to whom the credit of the achievement is due, made requisition on the Pullman Palace Car Company for the finest equipment which those famous car builders could produce. The result was a triple section train such as has never before glided over the rails in any country. A crew of twenty five persons, including stewards, cooks, waiters, porters, maids, electricians, and machinists, in addition to the usual quota of trainmen, was required to insure proper service. The outfit resembled in a somewhat lessened degree the personal equipment of an ocean greyhound, of which the trains were a duplication on land.

These trains were provided and tendered for the use of the distinguished guests of Chicago by Vice-President Thomson. They were run from Washington to Chicago as sections of the regular "Chicago Limited," of which they were duplicates, and they conformed to the regular schedule of that train. With the thorough organization of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company and its splendid system they came through the entire distance, on the special schedule time arranged for them, without accident or delay of any kind, and this in the face of an extraordinarily increased passenger traffic. The great line is in such excellent physical condition, so well protected by the safeguards of modern invention, and so perfectly managed by a corps of men who have been educated and trained under the eyes of its high officials, that a movement of this kind, extraordinary as it may appear to the public, was affected without interfering in any manner with the routine of everyday traffic.

It is to say that while no other country in the world would be able to move the entire organization of its government a distance of one thousand miles, so there is no other railroad company which could grapple with such a problem and solve it with the ease to the persons in interest and the credit to itself that has distinguished this achievement of the Pennsylvania Railroad. It reflects the utmost credit on Vice-President Thomson, who planned, and his associates, who executed the brilliant feat of railroad transportation, and holds out a bright promise of equally successful work when the resources of this line will be drawn upon next year to furnish adequate transportation facilities to the hosts who will visit the world's greatest fair.

November is the dread of insurance men on account of the frequency of fires that mark that month. The reasons for their frequency are well known. The increased cold compels the building of new fires and the strengthening of old ones to warm homes and buildings, and this new tax upon furnaces, flues and grates is too rarely attended with an examination to discover defects. Then again the strong winds of November are ready to spread a local fire until it becomes a general conflagration. A little more care in building fires and in examining fire apparatuses would permit a large share of the waste which annually makes the month of November so disastrous.

Catarrh, Not Local, But constitutional.

Dr. Dio Lewis, the eminent Boston physician, in a magazine article says: "A radical error underlies nearly all medical treatment of catarrh. It is not a disease of the man's nose; it is a disease of the man, showing itself in the nose—a Local exhibition of a Constitutional trouble." Therefore, he argues, the use of snuff and other local applications is wrong, and while they seem to give temporary relief, they really do more harm than good. Other leading authorities agree with Dr. Lewis. Hence, the only proper method of cure for catarrh is by taking a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, reaching every part of the body through the blood, does eliminate all impurities and makes the whole man healthier. It removes the cause of the trouble and restores the diseased membrane to proper condition. That the practical result is proven by thousands of people who have been cured of catarrh by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Presbyterian Women's Missionary Society.

The meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church last week Wednesday and Thursday was a very interesting one. A large number of delegates were in attendance. The opening services were held on Wednesday evening.

This society met again on Thursday morning in the Presbyterian church and spent a half hour in devotional services under the direction of Mrs. Wm. Neal. The corresponding secretary gave a report of the work accomplished during the year, and was followed by a report of the treasurer, Mrs. Stuart Mitchell. This showed the money contributed by the different auxiliaries in the congregation amounted to $2255.61. It is with pleasure we note that of this $361.01 came from societies connected with the church in Bloomsburg. In addition to this a box of articles valued at $70 was sent to a mission school supported by this society in New Mexico. On account of the unavoidable absence of Mrs. Mitchell, the treasurer's report was read by her daughter, Miss Rene. Mrs. Lundy, of Williamsport, a delegate to the Synodical society, which met in Harrisburg, gave an account of the proceedings of that body, which was listened to with much interest.

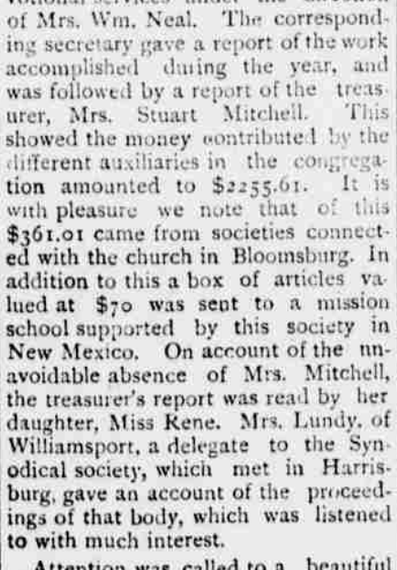
Attention was called to a beautiful collection of chrysanthemums which was sent with Christian greetings by Mrs. Boyd, of Harrisburg, and their appreciation expressed by a vote of thanks to the donor.

After partaking of a lunch, which was furnished by the ladies of the Lutheran church, and an hour spent in free social intercourse, the ladies again came together for the transaction of business. They listened to an interesting account of the work of Miss Cathcart of Scotia Seminary for colored girls in South Carolina, given by her mother, Mrs. Hughes of Indiana. This was followed by some earnest words in regard to their work and responsibilities from Mrs. Grier, of Brooklyn, a member of the executive committee.

Mrs. Carter, of Williamsport, led a praise service with special reference to the ten years of the society's work. This was interspersed with many touching and pleasant reminiscences of the meetings. After prayer by the Rev. Mr. Heilman of the Lutheran church, the business meeting adjourned to meet in Lock Haven next year.

A popular meeting had been arranged for the evening. A large audience, among whom were many from the other congregations in Bloomsburg, gathered to hear the speakers announced. This meeting was presided over by the pastor of the church. Mrs. Devore, who had spent three years in Alaska under the auspices of the Board of Home Mission, held the congregation for a full hour in deepest attention as she described in vivid and graphic terms the work there as coming under her own supervision, with its gratifying results. D. McMillan followed, and for another hour discussed in eloquent and fitting words of the work in Utah and New Mexico, a work in which he was engaged for several years. At the close of the meeting all felt a new glow of enthusiasm with Home Mission and all parties resolved to be more active in its interests in the future.

THE REPUBLICAN PARADE THAT DID NOT TAKE PLACE AFTER ELECTION



"Senator Sherman Renews His Attack"

Senator Sherman renewed his attack and refused to be convinced even by the oratory of the Iowa Senator. He wanted the Senate to do the straightforward thing, and not fizzle about it.

"Give the Fair $ 5,000,000 and do not make believe that you are deceiving youselves in giving it a 70 cent silver dollar, or two 35 cent half dollars." If the Children cry for it as the Senator has said they did "Why not give them Castoria?" said Sherman. He knew that it was a popular thing with the little ones, more popular he thought than even the souvenir half-dollar would be. The galleries looked down in surprise as these remarks came from Sherman, and Congressmen who entered the Chamber just as Mr. Sherman uttered them dropped into the vacant chairs nearest the door.

UNCLE DAN'S PRESENT.

From the very beginning of our acquaintance Uncle Dan seemed to dislike me. You know he was Jack's own uncle, and when I was introduced as his nephew's wife he took my hand gingerly, muttered something about a butterfly and refused to congratulate my proud husband. That was directly after our marriage. I was dressed then as prettily as my means would allow, for having used my own hard-earned money for my trousseau I thought I had a right to wear the gay things that Uncle Dan appeared to scorn.

But the strongest material will wear out, and mine was no exception to the rule. Jack was unfortunate in business and I was compelled to be so economical that I could purchase only the plainest of dresses. As time went on things were worse; the family grew larger and our income smaller; we were forced sometimes to deny ourselves substantial food. Uncle Dan must have known how reduced we were, and, although he was a wealthy man, he never rendered us the slightest assistance. On the contrary, he often helped us to eat our last loaf of bread. But we did not expect anything from Uncle Dan while he lived. We knew that he loved to hoard his gold. Yet the fact that we were his nearest kin, coupled with the one that he spent considerable time at our humble home, led us to believe that we would be the heirs to his vast wealth.

One day Uncle Dan surprised me by asking if I would take a walk with him. I consented. Then he took me to a dressmaker's, who, without any orders from him at the time, cut to my measure a beautiful black silk dress. I submitted, carefully hiding the astonishment that I felt, but when we left the house I questioned Uncle Dan as to his reason for presenting me with so suitable a gift. "I want you to have one decent dress," he said, testily, "and I expect you always to keep it. Do not part with it under any consideration or I shall never again make you a present. Now get through with the trying on, and when the thing is done bring it home and talk no more about it."

In a few days the dress was finished and was really very handsome. Had it come in happier times I should have rejoiced in its possession. As it was Jack and I felt that it was incompatible with our surroundings. Uncle Dan always insisted on my wearing it on Sunday afternoons when he was around, and thus I grew to hate the pretty thing with its abundance of frills and flounces.

To our intense relief the old man one day decided to take a trip to Europe for his health. No sooner had he made this startling announcement than I resolved to sell that dress the moment he had really gone. And I did dispose of it, realizing more for it than I had expected.

In six months Uncle Dan returned more miserable than before, and shortly afterwards died suddenly at our house. Among his effects was found a will, and we learned from this that he had bequeathed all he possessed to a distant cousin, a person without a family and who already owned considerable property. My husband and I were sadly disappointed. Jack was worn out from anxiety and overwork, and we counted on something that would at least pay for the board and lodging that Uncle Dan had taken at our expense. The latter declared that he had drawn up a later will in our favor, but as no other will could be found, even though a thorough search was instituted, the property was turned over to a distant cousin.

A few weeks later a lady called on me. At first I did not recognize her, but she proved to be the seamstress who had made that black dress.

"Don't you remember the dress I made for you?" she asked excitedly. "Well, that later will is sewn up in the drapery. He got me to do it for him and made me promise not to tell you while he lived. He said if you cared anything about him you would never part with the only thing he ever gave you. If you did you would be the loser thereby.

Imagine my feelings! The dress had been sold to a dealer in second-hand clothing and was now probably beyond my reach. I took the lady into my confidence, bound her to secrecy and hastened to the shop in which I had left the silk dress. It had been sold and to whom the dealer could not remember. I had nothing to do but to hope that the purchaser was an honest person who would find the will and restore it to me. How distinctly I now remembered that Uncle Dan had charged me not to part with the dress and how bitterly I repented my disobedience.

Months passed on, and though I eagerly examined every black silk presented to my gaze, I failed to come into contact with the one for which I longed. In the mean time Jack's health had grown so poor that he was unable to do a stroke of work, and I was taking in plain sewing for our support. His eyes would fill with tears when he saw me thus engaged, and my cheery: "Never mind, we'll find that dress yet, dear," only half comforted him.

After awhile I was employed to sew for a very wealthy lady, and great was my astonishment on entering her room one day to find her wearing that identical black silk dress. I could not be mistaken; the trimming was unlike any other I had ever seen. I almost gave way to an exclamation of delight, but a sudden suspicion that perhaps the dressmaker had not spoken the truth checked me in time, and I deciden that I would not be hasty. Why will we long for things, and when they are just within our grasp let them slip away before our very eyes?

The next day I spoke to her about the dress and asked her if she would give it to me to make over for her.

"I should be glad to do so, but I gave it to a friend who went away last evening to stay several months. It's pretty, but it got too tight for me. Did you like it?"

"Yes—do—do you know where she has gone?" I asked, my heart beating faster every minute.

"Oh, no, she's always travelling around from one place to another. She's a newspaper correspondent."

When I saw her the next day she asked, with a slight hesitation: "How did the silk dress fit?"

"The silk dress!" I repeated, in surprise.

"Yes, did you not open the bag of rags that I sent you last night? You see I found that my friend had forgotten, after all, to take the dress, and when I saw it still hanging in the closet I thought I would ask you to accept it. It would be so becoming and just about fit you."

I heartily thanked Mrs. Barr, mentioned that I had not yet examined the contents of the bag, and when evening came hastened home to at last lay my hands on that valuable dress. But stern, unrelenting fate was still against me. Jack had innocently sold the bag of rags, silk dress in the bargain, to a passing ragman. He bittely reproached himself for not having looked into the bag before selling the contents, but reproaches were of no avail now, and all I could do was to look out for that ragman and identify him according to Jack's description: "Large, stout man, red beard and sunburnt face." The majority of junkmen seemed to be built on that plan, and I was several times greeted with such remarks as these: "What yer starin' at?" "Think ye'll know me agin?" "Say, what do yer take me for, missus?"

Finally, I was positive that I had the right man. I grew desperate and called him to the house. Jack was now failing so rapidly that the doctor had said that only a change of air would save him and I determined to make a great effort. I did not ask the man if he had the dress; I inquired what had become of it. He pretended to be ignorant of my meaning, but I frightened him into confessing that he had given it to his wife. Then I demanded his address and immediately went there. A woman with a dirty face, and still dirtier hands, appeared in the doorway. I made known my errand. "Lor," she said, "it won't do much good now, even if I can find it. It was worn out long ago."

"No matter how much worn out it is, I must see it," I cried.

Startled by my vehemence, she hurried away and soon returned with the tattered remains of what was once my beautiful silk dress. I seized the thing and felt among the drapery for the missing will. Yes, there was certainly something hard there, and I astonished the woman by paying her $2 for the ragged dress.

It did not take me long to go home and open my bundle by Jack's bedside. "My poor dear," I said as I hurredly ripped the drapery, "I have now something that will bring you health and happiness."

But Jack could not rejoice with me until the will was actually in our hands. Then he closed his eyes and I knew he was thanking God for his goodness.

The distant relative quickly relinquished everything when he saw this later will. Noble Jack offered him a generous share, but the man politely refused it and went on his way.

In sunny Florida Jack corroborated his physician's statement by regaining health and strength. To-day there exists no happier, stronger man than my husband. By the way, he wanted to keep the black silk dress a reminder of old times, but I insisted that it should be buried with all our past cares and worries.

Married His Own Daughter.

DISTRESSING DISCOVERY MADE BY A CHICAGO MAN.

CHICAGO, November 6.—Counsel was retained yesterday in one of the strangest cases ever brought to the notice of the public. The facts outdo those of any of Rider Haggard's novels and verify the old adage that truth is stranger than fiction. The lawyer in the case is James W. Drouillard, and the client is Samuel Clifton Willetts, who asks the lawyer to decide for him whether a woman whom he married about two years ago is his daughter.

About forty-five years ago, according to the story told the lawyer, Mr Willets was married to Miss Mamie Evans at Erie, Pa. He was only 17 years old, while she was just turning 16. They went to live with Mr. Willets' parents, and for a year they were happy. At the end of that time a baby girl was born, and the joy of the young couple knew no bounds. As time passed dissensions arose and quarrels were frequent. A crisis was at last reached. One night when young Mr. Willets returned from his work, his wife and little child were gone. Shortly afterward he heard that his wife had died.

Six years after his wife had deserted him Mr. Willets married Caroline Stevens, a young girl, whose parents reside in a small town adjoining Erie. In less than two years a son was given to him, but his wife was taken away. He named the child George. It grew and prospered in health, and when 17 years old George entered the employ of Harding, Davis & Co, wholesale hardware dealers in Pittsburg. In a few years he was sent on the road by the firm. In the meantime the father moved to Pittsburg and took up his residence with his son.

On Christmas night, 1860, Mr Willets sat waiting in his apartments for the return of his son, who had been on the road for three months. Finally the door opened and the welcome visitor came in. He was not alone. With him he brought a young and beautiful wife. She was a Miss Helen Wright, and young Willits had met and won her in Cleveland, while traveling for the firm. Both her parents had recently died.

Mr. Willits took a strange fancy to his son's bride and as time flew on it was difficult to say which loved her the most, father or son. For twenty-eight years the couple lived happily together and old Mr. Willits seemed contented. On December 18, 1888, George Willits died, after a painful illness of six months.

A few months after his son's death Mr. Willets and his daughter-in-law went abroad. Singular attachment had sprung up between them and on January 18, 1890, they were married in West Kennington, London, England, by Wayne McLeonard, an Episcopal minister. Shortly afterwards they returned to America and devoted considerable time to travel. Much of their time they spent in Chicago, as they intended to eventually make this city their home.

A few months ago the possibility that he had married his own daughter began to dawn upon the mind of Mr. Willets and he was forced to believe that his wife was the little girl who had been born to him many years before in Erie, Pa.

Since then he has learned that his first wife, after deserting him, went to Cleveland, Ohio, where in less than seven years she married a man named John Wright. She brought her little girl up under the name of Wright. Shortly after her marriage her new found husband deserted her, She was left with her daughter and in a short time died. Miss Wright, left alone, sought employment and earned her living until she met George Willets in a house in which she was boarding, and fell in love with him.

Mr. Willets and his wife, or his daughter, as he now calls her, are living on the North Side. Mr. Willets said to-day that he had sent a private detective to Cleveland, Ohio, to trace the career of his first wife, and that he daily expected news from him.

Who Pays the Wedding Expenses?

Etiquette regarding wedding expenses is simple, but very strict. The groom does not furnish anything for the wedding excepting the wedding-ring, a bouquet, and a gift for the bride; bouquets and simple tokens for the brides maids; boutonnieres, collars, neckties, and gloves for the ushers and best man, and a souvenir of the event in the shape of a scarf-pin or some other trifle; a carriage to convey himself and the best man to the church; the carriage in which he and his bride leave the church and house; and the clergyman's fee. All other expenses, of every kind, pertaining to the wedding, are borne by the bride's family. This is as it should be. If an elaborate wedding cannot be afforded, it is much better to have a simple one than to incur any obligation to the groom for a display. —From "The Modern Wedding Festival," in Demorest's Family Magazine for November.

James McCormick, of Seymour, Ind., will be 100 years old during the coming week, and his proudest boast is that he once had a conversation with George Washington.

The difference in women.

Some women are tireless in their home work. Some are tireless in their work for the church. They laugh, they sing, and are happy.

You remain at home broken-hearted, for you are utterly unable to make any effort whatever.

The horror of "Female Complaints" is upon you; you have that distressing "bearing-down" feeling, your back aches, you are nervous and despondent, don't care to move, want to be left alone, your digestion is bad, and you are wholly prostrated.

Ah! dear sister, don't you know that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will reach the cause of all this trouble, and you will surely be well.

Don't hesitate. Get the remedy at once. It will cure you sure.

All druggists sell it, or sent by mail, in form of Pills or Lozenges, on receipt of $1. Correspondence freely answered. Address in confidence, LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICAL CO., LYNN, MASS. Liver Pills, 25c.

RAILS THAT LINCOLN SPLIT.

THEY STILL FORM A FENCE ABOUT A PETERSBURG (ILL.) FARM.

From the St. Louis Globe.

Stories of the great Lincoln are always of interest, and it seems as if there are few localities in Illinois that do not contain some pioneer who remembers the great emancipator, and cherishes a relic of the martyr president A visit was made the other day to the home of Andrew Simmons, a well to do farmer residing near the historic little inland village of Fountain Green lying near the line of Hancock and McDonough counties. At his home resides Mr. Simmon's aged mother, Mrs. Miranda Simmons. She is one of the sturdy pioneers of the West. She came to Illinois from Kentucky when she was fifteen years of age, and settled with her parents near Petersburg, where she married. They afterwards lived on the Alfred Gordon farm, near Petersburg, the fences of which are to this day composed of the identical rails cut by Abraham Lincoln. Mrs. Simmon gave the reporter an interesting account of Lincoln's famous rail splitting. It seems that while Lincoln was studying law at Petersburg he and a friend named Hanks—the latter a relative of Lincoln's mother—who was also studying, boarded at Alfred Gordon's. This Mr. Gordon was an old friend of the Lincoln family. As Mr. Gordon did not charge the young men any board, they undertook to make rails enough for two farms. So for some months Mr. Lincoln and young Hanks put in a part of their time making rails. Mr. Lincoln made most of the rails, and those cut by Hanks were used in fencing a farm owned by the father of Alfred Gordon. Mrs Simmons remembers Lincoln well as a smart but awkward boy long before he appeared in public life.

Boys Made into Wild Men.

From the London Chronicle.

There are many curious trades in the world, but the most strange must surely be the "artificial manufacture of wild men." Yet a well known English doctor in China has just certified from his own personal experience that this art is regularly practised in the flowery kingdom.

First a youth is kidnapped, then bit by bit he is flayed alive and the skin of a dog or a bear is grafted piece by piece upon him. His vocal chords are next destroyed by the action of charcoal to make him dumb, and the double purpose of causing "etiolation" of the skin and utter degradation of the mental faculties is effected by keeping him immured in a perfectly black hole for a number of years. In fact, by treating him like a brute for a sufficiently long time he is made into one.

At last he is exhibited to the entirely credulous Chinese as a wild man of the woods, and his possessors reap a rich harvest. The priests, it seems, are adepts at the art. When a kidnapper, however, is caught by the people he is torn to pieces, and when the authorities get him they torture him and promptly behead him.

A Pauper Falls Heir to $300,000.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 7.—Information has just reached here from California, that Barney Dunning, an inmate of the city poor farm here for twenty-two years, has fallen heir to an estate valued at $300,000. The fortune was bequeathed to Dunning by his brother William, who went to California in 1849, accumulated large wealth, and recently died leaving the estate to his brother, Barney, of this city.

HOW I EARNED AN INCOME

Enterprising Young Man: True & Co. instructed and started me. I worked steadily and made money faster than I expected. I became able to buy an island and build a small summer hotel. If I don't succeed at that, I will go into it again at the business in which I made my money. True & Co., Box 400, Augusta, Me., will be interested and glad to help. Reader! If you do, and if you work industriously, you will be doing as they did, become able to buy an island and build a hotel, if you wish to. Money can be earned at our new line of work, profitable and honorable, by those of either sex, young or old, in their own localities, wherever they live. Any one can do the work. Easy to learn. We furnish everything. You can devote your spare moments, or all your time to the work. This entirely new lead brings wonderful success to every worker. Beginners are earning from $5 to $20 per day and more, and more after a little experience. We can furnish you the employment—we will pay you handsomely for your time. This is an age of marvelous things, and here is another great, world-wide money-giving wonder. Great prizes will reward every industrious worker. Wherever you are, and whatever you are doing, you want to know about this wonderful work at once. Delay means much money lost to you. No space to explain here, but if you will write to us, we will make all plain to you FREE. Address TRUE & CO., Box 400, Augusta, Maine.

MONEY

Wisely invested will soon double itself, and there are often as many elements of safety surrounding a good paying investment as one that pays small dividends. The earning capacity of every investment is the foundation of dividends. The Atkinson House Furnishing Co., of Maine, Organized in 1887, has paid its stockholders 9 semi-annual dividends of 5 per cent. each (10 per cent. a year) and is earning a handsome surplus besides. It is a buy and sell business and a safe investment for all classes. The authorized capital is $1,000,000, of which $570,000 has been paid in. To further increase the business, $80,000 of the Treasury Stock is offered until March 15th, at par, $10 per share. Price of stock will be advanced February 18th to take effect on above date. For full particulars address the company, Box 1218, Boston, Mass. or Portland, Me.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

DR. J. F. KINCHELOE, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

And a good lamp

must be simple; when it is not simple it is not good. Simple, Beautiful, Good—these words mean much, but to see "The Rochester" will impress the truth more forcibly. All metal, tough and seamless, and made in three pieces only, it is absolutely safe and unbreakable. Like Aladdin's of old, it is indeed a "wonderful lamp," for its marvelous light is purer and brighter than gas light, softer than electric light and more cheerful than either.
